

DDC Distracted Driving Online NSC Driver Safety Training

NEW!

The National Safety Council 90-minute DDC Distracted Driving Online Course is designed to change drivers' behaviors and attitudes about distracted driving and help organizations to lower liability risks and costs associated with motor vehicle collisions and incidents.

Course description

DDC Distracted Driving Online delivers the most relevant, leading-edge content to keep your drivers safe while meeting the needs of your organization's driver safety program. The course uses an engaging, interactive online format to educate drivers about the risks and dangers of cell phone use while driving.

Participants have the flexibility to work on their own schedule anywhere they have web access. A Certificate of Completion is included with each paid enrollment and can be printed immediately by the participant after successfully completing the course.

What employees learn

The course will motivate participants to change their distracted driving attitudes and help them become more responsible drivers. Participants will learn about the science of distracted driving and cognitive distractions, the myths about multitasking and the personal costs, legal ramifications, societal and corporate impact after an incident. The course provides strategies to avoid distracted driving and encourages participants to pledge to drive cell phone-free.

Course highlights

- A self-assessment to set the pace of the course with appropriate scenarios, activities and content based on individual drivers' profiles and risk level
- Fully-narrated animations and videos, interactive exercises and driver simulations to create an engaging learning environment
- Real-life situations to allow participants to think about their current risk level and track how those attitudes change over the duration of the course
- A pledge to drive Cell Phone Free that each participant can print and sign
