

Carrier Rolls Along for One Million Miles

A/Post Office Operations Manager Doris Reed (l) and District Manager Angela Curtis present Rural Carrier Betty Roller with a Million Mile Award at the Rockingham Post Office. Roller's family surprised her for the celebration and award ceremony.

Rural Carrier Betty Roller is Mid-Carolinas District's most recent recipient of the National Safety Council's Million Mile Award. During her 30 years of postal employment Roller has never had a motor vehicle accident, thus earning her a position among the elite few award recipients.

District Manager Angela Curtis presented Roller with the Million Mile Award plaque, pin and a personal letter thanking her for driving safely throughout her postal career. "It isn't very often I have the opportunity to present this award and I want everyone to know how special this is. I want all carriers to come home safely every day to their families, but there are occasions that doesn't happen. This award represents a great achievement for Betty and it sets an example for all carriers."

A/Supervisor Lori Franklin organized the surprise ceremony inviting family members to attend. Roller's brother, two sisters and many nieces took her by surprise when they appeared on the workroom floor. "I have no idea what this is about," Roller said when Curtis asked her to come forward. "This is truly a surprise to me."

A/Postmaster Judy Mangum also thanked Roller for her dedication to safety. "I appreciate you taking the time to make safety a priority in your daily activities. Safety always comes first."
