TWO TRIPS TO THE MOON

Imagine driving coast to coast 334 times without ever leaving the city limits. That is the equivalent of what Milwaukee Western Station carriers Wayne Stetter and Al Zimmer accomplished as they logged over a million miles on their appointed rounds. Making this feat even more astonishing is the fact that they did it without a single preventable accident in over 30 years of driving.

As a result, both carriers were presented with a plaque from the Milwaukee Customer Service Operations Manager, Mario Ambrose, and automatic membership in the prestigious National Safety Council "Million Mile Club." The million mile award is a lifetime enrollment, and it is given to employees who have accumulated one million miles or 30 years of driving without being involved in a preventable motor vehicle accident.

"Just using common sense and paying attention while driving is the most important aspect of being a safe driver. Aside from driving to and from the route, most other drives are only a couple of blocks. These short repetitive drives are when it's very easy to get careless and inattentive since we feel so secure making the same short drives every day," said Zimmer.
