

NSC Labor Division Sponsorship Opportunities

As one of the four cross-industry Divisions of the National Safety Council, the Labor Division works with all NSC Divisions, governmental representatives and other partners who are committed to addressing the safety, health and environmental issues affecting the labor force. Through active participation in 18 committees, union members, safety stewards, Labor Division members, their employers and associated unions benefit from educational and networking opportunities throughout the year.

The Labor Division will be hosting two upcoming events – an annual meeting to be held in conjunction with the NSC Safety Congress & Expo in September 2024 in Orlando and the spring meeting, a three-day workshop in March 2025 in Milwaukee. These events include keynote speakers, educational sessions, special and professional interest committee meetings, awards luncheon, and reception. Attendees have the opportunity to network and engage with one another to learn about effective safety practices and solutions that they can bring back to their own organizations. Attendees include, but are not limited to, labor division members, union members, and regulatory personnel.

Organizations have the opportunity to engage with and support the NSC Labor Division by supporting these events, which will help us attract new participants and form new partnerships. By increasing the number of attendees and expanding the variety of topics available to the attendees, local unions and employers have workers who can communicate effective practices around safety issues, which results in great collaboration and focus on safety. The various levels and benefits offered include:
