15 MATERIALS HANDLING AND STORAGE

CASE STUDY

The shipping and receiving room at Rockwell Printing is a busy place. The manager, Don Zmansky, is giving a tour of his area to the boss's nephew, Jimmy, who will be working there for the summer. Don wants to impress upon the young man that this is serious work with a variety of hazards to be aware of.

- Don points to the floor underfoot and mentions just a few of the considerations that go into floors. What are some of those issues?
- 2. Don goes on to talk about traffic control. What has to be done to keep traffic moving safely in a busy area like this?
- 3. Even a job that seems uncomplicated, like removing strapping from bound materials, has hazards to be aware of. How should that job be done correctly?
